Medical Diagnostics Firm Harnesses the Power of Femto Technology to Water for Revolutionary Medically Therapeutic Uses

KMZ Holdings created Femto Water, a game changer that goes beyond nanotechnology to improve disease conditions by ameliorating the human body's immunity, mental health and other genetic anomalies and mutations.

Los Angeles, CA – November 5, 2020 – KMZ Holdings LLC (<https://www.kmzholdings.net>), a cutting-edge medical diagnostic company owning a patented, proprietary cloud-based evolutionary tool for the medical field, proudly announces a stunning application of subatomic Femto Technology principles to its new product Femto Water.

KMZ employs Femto-based technologies to create a Femto Gold Quad Chip Device (FGQD) to facilitate medical care. Femto Technology works at the genetic, cellular, chromosomes, DNA and amino acid levels. By employing an efficient proprietary system, FGQD attempts to bring changes to the cellular level to resolve many pathologies.

According to Nandan Kundetkar, Chief Science Officer and KMZ Holdings Co-Founder, “As a result of our extensive R&D research where we identified Femto Technology working at a subatomic level, Femto-based products such as our Femto Water can improve disease conditions.”

“An example of these successful efforts can be seen with COVID-19 treatment,” notes Mr Kundetkar. “At KMZ Holdings, we believe that due to FGQD’s healing properties, Femto Water can minimize the severity of COVID-19 symptoms. Thus, it can prove to be vital in providing medical relief to severely sick patients even on ventilators in typically four days.”
